

These are 'character portraits' of some of the characters that you've read about in the Tashi stories so far.

Tashi comes from a place very far away, and he arrived here on a swan. Tashi has a way with witches and warlords, and he's not afraid of dragons, giants or robber barons. Although he's small and not very old, he comes up with some cunning plans in tight situations! And he tells the very best stories.

Tashi

The dragon is huge. He has scaly dragon eyes which are slitty and smokey. He's very lonely because he is the very last dragon. He once had a huge, noisy family but his Mum and Dad grew old and died and he ate the rest of the family!
The dragon doesn't like water at all.

The Dragon

Chintu the Giant is as big as two houses put together. He's as big as a mountain, with tufts of hair which look like spiky trees. He is so tall he casts a shadow over the whole village.
Chintu promised to cook Tashi up in a tasty fritter, but Tashi had a clever escape plan involving some yummy dumplings!

Chintu the Giant

These are three more of the characters that appear in other Tashi adventures. Use your imagination to write 'character portraits' for each of them. Can you describe what they look like? Are they Jack's or Tashi's friends (or enemies!!). What do they like doing? Are they goodies or baddies in the stories? Is there something they are afraid of? Be as descriptive as you can.....
